VIVA Wyndham Resorts Further Caters to Families by Inviting Kids to Stay Free

Money-Saving Offer Makes Affordable Summer Getaway a Reality for Parents

Travel With John Daye

With Americans planning to take 328 million leisure trips this summer*, Viva Wyndham Resorts is rolling out the red carpet for family travel. Running June 1 through July 31, 2006, kids 17 and under will eat, stay and play for free while staying with one paying adult at any of Viva Wyndham's eight all inclusive resorts in the Bahamas, Dominican Republic and Mexico.

While on property, popular family activities include snorkeling, kayaking, dance classes and pool-side games, along with Viva Wyndham's celebrated nightly shows, which blend dancing, singing and acting with guest participation. Additionally, kids can take advantage of the renowned Viva Wyndham Kid's and Junior's Club, which offer daily scheduled activities such as archery, beach volleyball, sandcastle building, face painting, pool games, windsurfing and tennis. All activities are divided into age-appropriate groups. Babysitting services are also available for a nominal fee.

Viva Wyndham guests also enjoy Wyndham ByRequest®, the brand's guest recognition program developed by Wyndham to deliver on its brand philosophy of empowering guests to achieve a more customized hotel experience. Guests may choose items from a variety of pre-selected categories that appear on the Wyndham ByRequest profile form, such as a welcome snack or a preferred type of wine.

U.S. Department of Homeland Security's US-VISIT Program Completes International 'E-Passport' Live Test

Test Marks Progress in E-Passport Reader Development With VWP Deadline Six Months Out

WASHINGTON, April 18 -- Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Deputy Secretary Michael Jackson announced today important progress in the development of biometrically-enabled technologies to prevent the use of fraudulent or stolen international travel documents.

DHS is testing e-Passports and e-Passport readers in anticipation of an upcoming deadline requiring all Visa Waiver travelers issued a passport after October 26, 2006 to present an e-Passport to enter the United States under the Visa Waiver Program (VWP).

The use of the new e-Passports and deployment of e-Passport readers to U.S. ports of entry will help to ensure the authenticity of international travel documents and provide U.S. Customs and Border Protection officers with another invaluable tool for use in the border inspection process.
